Full Description

The MedX Conference brings together high school students, post secondary learners, professionals, and community leaders for a day of learning, connection, and growth.

Designed to inspire the next generation of healthcare and wellness leaders, the conference offers opportunities to explore diverse career pathways, build professional skills, expand your network, and hear from experienced voices across a range of fields. Whether you're just beginning to explore your future or looking to take the next step in your journey, MedX is a place to learn, connect, and be inspired.

Date, time, and location will be announced soon.
